

Warren Grossman School of Healing

Warren trains people in an active, step-by-step process, to access the Earth's energy and to deliberately open their hearts.

Emphasis is placed on grounding (accessing energy from the earth). This is because we live in a culture that binds people's feet and shoes, preventing them from easily accessing the natural foundation of energy that calms, heals and reduces fear.

The second behavior that is taught is opening the heart. Students easily master both skills because they are natural.

Warren Grossman, Ph.D. has a doctorate from Kent State University. He also studied at The Gestalt Institute of Cleveland. He is a healer, teacher and author.
